The Weekend - What a Bargain! (C0051)

- A: Hello. May I help you?
- Yeah, this dress is really nice! How much is it? B:
- That one is one hundred and fifty dollars. A:
- One hundred and fifty dollars? What about this B: other one over here?
- That's one hundred and forty dollars.
- Hmm...that's a bit out of my price range. Can you give me a better deal?
- This is an exclusive design by DaMarco! It's a A: bargain at that price.

B:	Well, I don't know.	I think I'll shop around.

A: Okay, okay, how about one hundred dollars?

That's still more than I wanted to spend. What if I В: take both dresses?

Okay, I can give you a special discount, just because you seem like a nice person. One hundred and ninety dollars for both.

I don't know... It's still a bit pricey.... Thanks any-B: way.

Okay, my final price! One hundred dollars for A: both! That's two for the price of one. That's my last offer!

Great! You've got a deal! B:

Learn English on your Terms

Key Vocabulary

bargain common a good deal, a cheap noun, sin- price

gular

shop around phrase look in many stores and try to find the best price

discount common a lowering of the price noun, sin- of something

gular

exclusive Adjective not common, unique out of my phrase too expensive, can't af-price range ford it offer common an opportunity to buy noun, sin- something at a low gular price pricey Adjective expensive deal common agreement to buy some-noun, sin- thing

gular

Supplementary Vocabulary promotion commona special discount or of> fer on goods and sernoun, singularvices

cash money in the form of common > coins and bills noun, singular

credit card card that is used to common > buy things and pay at sinnoun, a later time gular negotiate principle to discuss and fight for > verb, a better price present simple freebie a free item that is usucommon > ally given to promote a noun, sin-product qular